PROGRESS OF THE INSURBECTIONARY WAS-GEN-ERAL VALMASEDA'S POSITION IN THE FIELD-REBEL ORDER FOR THE CESSATION OF INCEN-

HAVANA, May 1, 1875. The latest intelligence received here from the front confirms the defeat of the insurgents at Las Gruces on the 22d ult., and places the loss of the Spanish troops at about 200 men killed and wounded. The insurgent loss is placed at soo killed, the wounded having been snot by orders of the Spanish commander.

The insurgents succeeded in breaking through the Spanish lines and making a junction of all their forces between Villa Clara and Santi Spiritu, under the command of Maximo Gomez.

THE CAPTAIN GENERAL IN THE PIELD. General Valmaseda is still at Las Cruces in good health and spirits, where he intends to prepare the Spanish troops for the coming campaign, feels confident of compelling the insurgents to re-treat beyond the trocha within two works. The insurgents having better horses than the Spanish cavairy retard the advance of Vaimaseda, but he feels consident that he will be able to procure good animals by an impressment of ten per cent of all the horses on the part of the island embraced within the Spanish lines.

REBRIS RETREATING TO THE MOUNTAINS. The insurgents are retreating toward the mountains in the vicinity of the trochs, which they intend to establish as their base and await the commencement of the rainy season, which they depend upon more than risking a battle.

INCENDIARIEM PORBIDBEN. No more sugar estates have been burned since just report. I have learned from parties who have arrived here from estates which were spared the torch that the insurgent commanders issued orders to their troops to cease destroying property of every description.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH. The reports of yellow feyer having made its appearance among the foreign shipping in Havans are incorrect. There has not been a single case among the shipping this season, and there are very few cases at present in the city.

He was sold as a yearing to Mr. Yerward. As a two-year-old (1871) he ran five times, winning but once—the Freemen's Plate, at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, of five inlongs, value £85. Up to this time he had been running as an unnamed coit, but was then named, in homor of his maiden victory, after the plate he had won. Freeman then passed into the hands of Mr. Merry and was started at Newmarket in a two-year-old plate and was unplaced. In his three-year-old form (1872) he ran eight times, winning twice—the Great Northern Handicap, at York, May 14, two miles, value £300, and the Roxburgh Handicap, at Keiso, Ostober 1, one and a halt miles, value £485. As a four-year-old (1873), Freeman started four times, winning twice. The Great Northern Handicap (as above) for the second time, value £400, in distance this year, nowever, being reduced to one and three-quarter mile, and the Redoourne Park Stakes, September 15, one mile, value £40, in which contest he carried 163 lbs. Previous to thus race he was purchased by Mr. Heneage, his present lucky owner. In 1874, as a five-year-old, he started six times, aiming at big game on every occasion, but did not win a race. These several events were the Ascot Stakes, Great Yorkshire Handicap, Liverpool Autumn Cup and the Column Handicap at Shrewsbury, in which he managed to ootain third piace. His performance this year in the City and Suburban Handicap, April 20, and which brought him into such notice and favor, is given in the telegram above. *Lanercost was own brother to Otisiba.

WASHINGTON.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, May 5, 1875. SPECULATIONS AMONG THE POLITICIANS OVER THE REMOVAL OF COMMISSIONER DOUGLASS-THE INDIANA LIST OF OFFICE-HOLDERS-PENNSYLVANIA AND THE THIRD TERM-THE PRESIDENT AND SENATOR MORTON.

The removal of J. W. Douglass, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, was a surprise to many, though Senators and Congressmen stated weeks ago that he was to leave the office. The reason for the change, it is said, is not a political one, and will be followed by removals of a number of important revenue omcials for cause. Mr. Douglass has been for nearly ten years connected with the internal revenue, first as Collector of the Eric District, Pennsylvania, subsequently as First Deputy Commissioner under Delano, and last as Commissioner, succeeding General Pleasonton.

Whatever may be the charges the politicians in Washington ask with much seriousness, "What does it mean ?" So rapid have been the selection of federal office holders from Indiana that the suspicion is generally entertained that the President is lending his strength to promote the interest of Senator Morton. The list now stands:-Ministers Poster at Mexico, Orth at Vienna and Consul General Hitt at Paris, the latter for years Morton's private secretary. Then there is Mr. Tyner, Second Assistant Postmasier General; Mr. Ray, Deputy Commissioner of Internai Revenue; John C. New, Spinner's successor, and finally ex-Senator Pratt, the new Commissioner. It is not believed here that all these important appointments from Indiana are comeidental. Senator Cameron, though courteously received at the Executive mansion to-day, did not leave the President satisfied with the sudden turn by which political pref-erences have been brought about. The Pennsylvania politicians say openly that it is in revenge for their denouncing the third term and a determination on the part of the President to scenre through Senator Morton's management a renomination. In the absence of charges and reasons for the removal of Douglass the report was current tonight that other changes will be made in a few days, and that the list now embracing the names of Mullett, Spinner, Hartley and Douglass will be more than doubled this month. A prominent democratic Congressman, who was to-day discussing the political situation, remarked that the office of Commissioner of Internal Revenue could be abolished, as well as many other offices in that bureau, but if Secretary Bristow continued his rotating machine there was no telling but he would finally suggest to the President that his presence at meetings of the Cabinet was not necessary, and that he ought to resign for the good of the party.

GENERAL WASHINGTON DESPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, May 5, 1875. A RELIC OF THE TIMES OF WASHINGTON-AN OLD CHURCH RESTORED.

On Sunday last, for the first time in fifteen years, religious services were held in Pohick church, Fairfax county. It was built in 1773, through the active exertions and influence of George Washington. During the late war it was occupied by federal troops as a stable. It became more and more dilapidated, until within the past year, when some gentlemen of New York learning of its condition, and animated by a commendable desire to preserve this old link which connects us with the past, and its great men from obliteration through neglect, provided the means and had the edifice rebuilt and refurnished in a most substantial and handsome manner.

THE LABORERS' STRIKE-AN ATTEMPT TO INTER-PRIE WITH THE WORKING MEN SUMMARILY ENDED.

To-day about 300 of the street laborers on a strike appeared on Boundary street, some of them carrying short cinbs. They were marching toward seventh street, where Sylvanus Greason had a force at work. Lieutenant Noonan and his mounted men, as well as those on were ready for them, and enarged upon them, scattering them in every direction and capturing some of their number, who were locked up. The strike among the laborers is mainly confined to those whose pay heretofore has been $1 per day. The $1.25 men are generally at work to-day. Thomas Lucas, contractor for the improvement of Mill street, Georgetown, states that his laborers, some forty in number, struck for $1.50 per day this morning and left work.

At about ten ofclock yesterday morning as Mr.

David S. Paige, ex-member of Assembly and proprictor of Paige's Hotel, corner of Spring and West streets, was engaged in conversation with Samuel Decker, one of his boarders, Mr. Paige called the attention of Decker to certain remarks which it was alleged Decker had made use of in referring to him (Paige), and which he considered disparaging. The two men finally became violent in their conversation, and Paige ordered Decker to leave the hotel, Decker repeatedly making threats against Paige. They were, however, separated, Decker leaving the house. Nothing further was seen of him until about half-past seven o'clock last night, when, as the hotel, seated at a table in the centre of the room taking his dinner, Decker entered and walked toward him. The former was sitting with his back to the door, and consequently did not see Decker approach, who passed by him a lew paces, then turned around and retraced his steps. By this time Paige, becoming alarmed at the strange conduct of the man, was about to arise, when suddenly he heard the sharp report of a pistol, and turning quickly around saw Decker only a few feet distant holding a smoking pistol in a line with his head. OBITUARY.

HEINRICH GEORGE AUGUSTUS EWALD, GERMAN

PHILOLOGIST AND REFORMER. A cable telegram from London, under date o yesterday, the 5th inst., reports the occurrence of the death of Heinrich George Angust Ewald, the German philologist. Ewald, who became famous as an Orientalist, a theologian, historian and po listcal reformer, was born in Göttingen, on the 1sth of November, in the year 1803. He was consequently in the seventy-second year of his age at the time of his demise. He developed his talent at an early age, and in the year 1831 was appointed to the chair of philosophy, and afterward to those of Oriental languages and theology, in the University of Göttingen. In politics he was a progressive liberal and reformer. He took pride in the fact that he was one of the seven professors of the Gottingen University who were dismissed from that institution in the year 1837 on account of their publication of a joint remonstrance against the unconstitutional proceedings of his Majesty Krnest Augustus, King of Hanover, Journeying from Germany he crossed over to England, in which country he spent some time, greatly esteemed and respected by the Meradi and political reformers of the day. During a period of ten years, from 1838 to 1848, Ewaid was professor of theology at Tubingen. He was reinstated in his chair at Gottingen in 1848, He was a fertile writer and most assidnous publisher, his works—loguistic, critical and historical—comprising very many volumes. His great work, "History of Israel," was brought our the years 1844—50. His leading toward Haur and other adherents of the Tubingen school of peliosophy involved him in many controversies. The King of Wurtemberg ennobled him in the year 1846, Ewaid remained strictly faithful to the failen dynasty. His conduct and interances subjected him to indicement and trial for treason, at the mastance of Bismarck and the members of Bismarck's party in Parisament. Ewaid was acquitted despite this hostile exertion, and in the month of May, 1868, was elected a member of the North German Parliament, as a reward of his dishiparch against arbitrary rule and the "one man power" in Germany.

To the Members of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York:—
The understand earnestly recommend to your support, at the Annual Election of the Chamber of Commerce, to be held on the oth inst, at I. P. M., the regular nominations which are hereto annexed.

These nominations have been made in accordance with
These nominations have been made in accordance with These nominations have been made in accordance with the second material of the continuous officers in regular order of ambier, promoting the present officers in regular order of ambier, promoting the tests, and give no room for the display of personal feelfure. It, moreover, will stavays give a just and gratfull recognition for long and taithus active service in the work of the Chamber, and in the present instance this is pre-immentity the case.

We do not desire to enter into the question of the individual view of any candidate uson either ticket. The Chamber of Commerce can secure its prooper influence only by embodying in its membership all views of huance and trade, and by having all subjects discussed without partsanship or lear of unpopularity. The community should know that the decisions of the chamber are given only by its official arts and resolutions after due deliberation and full and caudid discussions, and not by the result of a contested chetion, with all its personalities and animostices.

We believe that this is the first time since the organization of the Chamber (certainly within the memory of most of its members) that an effort has been most to extent will be an annual election, and is not present rate only to fail into the shough of politics.

Justice to the candidates on the regular teket, howthat it will be an infortunate day when the Chamber shall have gotten out of what is called "the present rule" only to fail into the slough of politics "the present rule" only to fail into the slough of politics "the present rule" only to fail into the slough of politics "the present rule" only to fail into the slough of politics on the regular tekes, however, requires us to reet the assertions of the circular of the opposition with a more supersisons upon the financial views of the regular candidates are altogether united and informatic Again, the intimation that the opposition is a movement in layor of progress is a reversal of the fact, since the active working and progressive members of the Chamber are represented by the regular nominations and its not untain to notice that, though the signers of the opposing circular are eminetity to be respected, the chamber has not in the past had the beneat of the attondance or service of very many of these gentlemen.

One vol., sq. 12mo, cloth, $1 50. This is one of the freshest and most entertaining volumes yet fasued in the popular "Bric-a Brac Series" Neither the "Journal of Raikes" nor the "Memoirs of Miss Knight" have ever before been brought within the reach of American readers, yet they are almost entirely devoted to characteraste anecdotes regarding celebrities social, political and literaty-in whom the interest is universal and us failing. Dr. Johnson, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Beau Brum mell, Napoleon Bonaparte, Admiral Nelson, Faileyrand, the Duke of Wellington, are but a few among the notebilities who live again in these pages. The "Journals of Raikee" have the additional recommendation of being to some extent supplementary to the Greville Staries; Raikes was a friend and correspondent of Greville, and his Journals begin about the period that those of Graville
